

East Greenbush Police Department
225 Columbia Turnpike
Rensselaer, NY 12144

Voice: (518) 479-2525

Fax: (518) 479-4527

Email: info@egpolice.com

Source: Elaine Rudzinski, Chief of Police

Citation: Public Officers Law, Article 6, Sec. 84-90 (FOIL)

New York Mental Hygiene Law - MHY § 9.41 Emergency admissions. For Immediate Release, East Greenbush, NY, July 31, 2019

Patrols were dispatched to a local hotel for an intoxicated female walking in the road. Officer Anthony Gullo arrived and found the woman in her room yelling obscenities and making statements that she wanted to harm herself. She was taken into protective custody.

In other cases;

A troubled woman and her mother were driving on interstate 90 when she attempted to open the door and jump out of the moving vehicle. The mother was able to pull over near a local hotel and patrols responded. The young woman was interviewed by Officer Edward Ashley and taken into protective custody.

Despite numerous attempts at seeking and receiving assistance, a Rensselaer man died from self-inflicted injuries at a local hotel.

A distraught woman sent a friend a concerning message threatening self-harm. Patrols were notified and responded to find a highly intoxicated woman threatening harm to herself and being aggressive towards officers. She was taken into protective custody by Officer Griffin Hotaling.

A troubled man involved in a prior domestic incident in the day entered the lobby of headquarters angry about his wife leaving him. After officers were able to calm the man down, he stated to them that he had thoughts of harming himself. He was taken into protective custody by Officer Anthony Gullo.

After arriving on scene of a domestic incident, patrols located a troubled woman throwing her kitchen table into the grass. The woman was highly intoxicated and threatening to do harm to herself. She was taken into Custody by Officer Michael Herrington.

While in protective custody, all individuals receive services at Samaritan Hospital's regional mental health reception center for evaluation, counseling and family assistance on a case by case basis.